S. Expert at Columbus
Takes Even Break for Chil-

COLUMBUS, O., March 21 —
Teachers were called this inequality," Miss Lenroot said in her prepared talk.

"More than a fourth of the boys and girls of high school age

She suggested that federal aid might take the form of grants to help students complete high school when "financial obstacles would otherwise make it difficult or impossible," and scholarships for "promising students beyond high school" to help fulfill "democracy's need for universal access to an education."

Miss Lenroot told the 1,500 delegates to the convention that 13 per cent of the nation's 35,000,

Negro families "which in general

PIANO JOINS THREE R'S

Cost Is Cut to 27.7 Cents a Lesson.

SIMBLE ON THE KEYS are these 7-year-olds learning finger exercises and note reading from Miss Merita Lynch, their teacher. It's Carolyn Zeman's turn at the piano.

By ELEANOR GRIESENER

Associated Press Writer

BALTIMORE—Who says music lessons have to be in the luxury brackets, stretching family budgets? In Baltimore, they only cost 27.7 cents a lesson.

Before the Baltimore public schools took over, parents could have piano lessons, only to find out he either couldn't or wouldn't play. Added to this were the wasted talents of children with ability never got a chance to learn music.

Today, six hundred youngsters, second to fifth grade, are getting a musical education along with the three "R's." Classes of ten meet for an hour a week for a two-year course. That gives children an excellent background for further study and appreciation of music.

Johnny, if he is very talented, can even major in music when he gets to high school. Two of his five courses will be music theory and practice, and the other three regular academic courses.

And if Johnny doesn't take to the piano, it isn't too late to redirect his energy to some other activity. Meanwhile classical music and a symphony orchestra have ceased to be mysteries to him.

The children use table-top key-boards in class when they aren't taking turns at the piano. Ducts are one way the teacher doubles up on the use of the piano. Although many of the children don't have pianos in their homes, they can arrange to practice on the school instrument before and after classes and at lunch time.

Oscar P. Steinhilber, supervisor of instrumental music in the public schools, says private teachers approve the program since it introduces more children to a basic understanding of music.

The program started six years ago with a grant of $172,100 from the Carnegie Corp. of New York to finance a community plan for education in art and music. While the grant lasted, lessons were free, but only to about 115 students. Now the classes pay for themselves, and there are about 600 youngsters enrolled.

Instrumental instruction, beginning with fourth grade pupils, is offered to about 100 students meeting in centers for the French horn, clarinet, violin and flute.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 14 million of the most delicate filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to rest up at night. I recent researches have shown that a simple and effective remedy sometimes shows a three in one result: it helps with your kidneys or bladder, don't affect this condition and is a valuable restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of sex and energy, swelling, rashes, itching, the eyes, headache and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives rapid relief and will help the 14 million of filters flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

OPA Calls Meeting of Meat Slaughterers

One of a series of meetings being held throughout the state for the discussion of new cattle slaughtering regulations will be held at 2 p. m. Friday, March 22, in the Colonial room at the Southern hotel in Columbus.

Gordon Van Loan, head of the Food Section of the OPA District Office at Cincinnati, and Arthur Roth, meat prices specialist, will be present to explain the regulation and to answer any questions that may be asked.

The new amendments to maximum price regulation 574 call for a number of changes in the slaughterers' reports and records of those who slaughter cattle and calves. They apply to all slaughterers killing five or more animals a month.

Counties to be covered by this meeting are: Franklin, Marion, Morrow, Knox, Union, Delaware, Licking, Madison, Fayette, Pickaway and Fairfield.

Mrs. Donald Phelps Named P.T.A. Head

Mrs. Donald Phelps was elected to serve as president of the Oakland school P.T.A. when election of officers was held at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the school.

Mrs. Lowell Pollock was elected first vice president; Miss Vivian Pesselt, second vice president; Mrs. Edward Craft, secretary; Mrs. Lee Wedertz, treasurer; Mrs. Cecil Noble, council representative; and Mrs. Burl Bristol, alternate council representative.

The group voted to send Mrs. Phelps and Mrs. Pollock to a P.T.A. conference to be held in Newark, March 28. A cafeteria supper which was to be held this month was postponed until April 26. A program was presented by the Girl Scouts and Cub Scouts of the school. The fifth grade, with Miss Marguerite Howser as teacher, had the largest number of mothers present.

Old Bob Died in 1925

ASIDE from Wisconsin's internal politics, named as the immediate reason for the breakup of the Progressive party, the real reason for the party's decision to join the Republicans is the fact its founder has been dead for 21 years.

Robert M. La Follette built up with oratory and integrity one of the most loyal followings in American politics. He was ousted by the stubborn corruption of the major parties. To this day, the original members of his following revere his name and principles. But a fifth of a century is a long time. Lacking a dynamic leader, the Progressives in Wisconsin and the out-of-state converts who gave Old Bob one-sixth of the presidential vote in 1924 were held together by nothing but their common memory of the movement's founder. To give the heirs to his political legacy their due, the wonder is not that Progressivism has lost its momentum but that they keep it going under its dwindling steam for a fifth of a century.

It takes little imagination to find a parallel in what is happening to the personal following of Franklin D. Roosevelt. In less than a year after his death, the Roosevelt following is falling away from the heirs. It will not take 21 years to complete the breakup of the minority that believed Mr. Roosevelt could do no wrong but already are wondering if his political successors can do any right.

Any Scrap Steel, Mister?

CPA, which in this case does not stand for certified public accountant but civilian production administration, has asked the country to collect 2,000,000 tons of iron and steel scrap in the next half year to meet needs for housing and production of consumer goods.

This scrap must be collected in the United States, the agency explains, because the flow of battlefield scrap metal that was expected to materialize is not going to materialize. But it does not explain why. Nor does it explain why hundreds of thousands of tons of scrap are going to be sent to the bottom of the ocean in atomic bomb tests, instead of being saved for manufacture of steel. It is not CPA's job to explain why and wherefore, but to round up enough scrap metal to give steel mills an assured supply.

Meanwhile the fact is that the United States seriously has depleted its available reserves of not only processed metals but original sources and apparently is about to write them off as a net loss. Remembering the wartime scrap drives, when everything depended on keeping steel mills supplied with the wherewithal to do their part in a war of production, many of us are wondering what could be more important at this time than to bring back every ton of iron and steel that can be rounded up overseas. It was, it is and increasingly will be an invaluable national asset.

The Lesson Stuck

ONE of the valuable byproducts of World War II was the lesson that rubber is a vital commodity. The report made by the government's interagency committee on rubber accepts this and applies it to the problem of future security. The United States must never be caught short on rubber again.

The United States could have lost World War II by its natural rubber deficiency, a major objective of Japanese strategy. The disaster was narrowly averted at enormous expense by quick development of a synthetic industry. Chief question of future rubber policy is the postwar fate of this industry.

The government committee's report advocates a balancing of the rubber supply between synthetic and natural rubber, with the former to be turned over as rapidly as possible to private ownership. Public security is to be guaranteed by stockpiling of natural rubber and maintenance of synthetic plants on a stand-by basis. The whole field of rubber supply is to be canvassed systematically by research under government encouragement and, in some instances, government subsidy. These necessities, obvious now, were not obvious just before the beginning of war. Government then, though aware of the imminence of a war which inevitably would cut off natural rubber sources in the Pacific, was not sufficiently impressed with rubber's role in the national economy to take more than nominal precautions—an error that came perilously close to crippling war production while creation of a synthetic industry hung in the balance.

Mass of Propaganda Buries Facts About Food.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The food situation is so deeply buried beneath a mass of propaganda a dozen farmers could not pitch it off in a year.

We were feeding wheat to hogs only last year and the year before, and now we have to eat black wheat in bread. Yet we still have a prospective surplus of 150,000,000 bushels for the end of the crop year, and crop prospects are good. The late winter provided good moisture through the breadbasket section of the farm belt. Winter wheat looks fine in most areas. There is no deficiency in supply.

Many stories have been told about the black wheat order, both as to its causes and effects. The one which I believe has not been told as far as I know is that the change does not make much difference, as far as increasing the available supply of wheat. My most trustworthy experts tell me the order contemplated leaving a mile more of the dark husk in the ground wheat. It did not contemplate any deterioration in the quality of flour, and has had less influence upon white bread than upon darker bread. The saving will be limited in amount to the quantity of husk left in the flour—which cannot be much. As far as health is concerned, the vitamin content of the new flour would be reduced by only the same mile of replacement.

Official Position

This is the official position in the matter, and any deterioration in the quality of the flour or bread is what might be called unofficial. Some parties may be taking advantage of the government order to fatten poor products off on the public at the same old price.

The so-called black bread step therefore appears primarily a strategem to bring home to the people the necessity for food conservation—a strategem which opens an excuse for abuses, a deterioration in quality and secret price increases, and is a typical old Rooseveltian method of "bringing things home to the people."

The move for curtailment of portions in restaurants opens similar vistas. The OPA issued this order and specified the same old high prices should be charged for the smaller portions. If the government wanted to save food for Europe the natural thing would have been to cut the prices as well as the portions. That would have saved both the food and the consumer. But by this old Rooseveltian way of doing the thing, the public is wheedled into another hidden price increase of inestimable proportion because the restaurants can reduce quality, dispense nearly anything they have left in the kitchen and excuse themselves by saying to the customer—"We are feeding the starving in Europe."

Enlistment of Mr. Hoover to head the campaign on the newly discovered famine in Europe therefore may not represent the complete overhauling of the food program I thought was first indicated.

Hoover's Position

Exactly what Mr. Hoover is to be, remains to be seen. He did not immediately get the Lehman job in the futile UNRRA, but only the prestige of leadership and went off to Europe to find the cause of the famine, which must be apparent to our armed forces on the ground there since last fall. Indeed, Mr. Hoover reeled off all kinds of figures about it before he left.

What do these strange events mean? For once, I am stopped by the confusions of Washington. I am asking for the answers.

King, George (Associated Newspapers, Inc.)

A GOOD ORGANIZATION BUT DOOMED TO DIE YOUNG

A strictly feminine veterans' post is being formed in Washington. It being still in the organization stage, no plans have been announced as yet for the inevitable men's auxiliary.

Nevertheless, its formation is still bad news for hundreds of husbands who henceforth will have to mind the kiddies while Ma attends the weekly smokers.

One can just see the ex-servicemen in years to come, waddling along in Armistice Day parades, their old uniforms straining at the seams—the bearded veterans of former wars.

It might even grow into a nationwide outfit, with annual conventions, and everything. Imagine the girlish horse-play, the dropping of water-filled paper bags from hotel windows and the molesting of men in the street.

Yes, sir, the feminists are currently a force to be reckoned with. Any day now I expect to read of them organizing a march on the nation's capitol, demanding a bonus of nylons.

Of course, it won't last long. Ten years at most. After 1955, no woman's going to admit she's old enough to have participated in the war.

Security As Basis of Peace

By Walter Lippmann

THE ground on which there is the best chance, so it seems to me, of a meeting of minds between the Russians and ourselves is in the security of military security. This was the ground on which there was collaboration during the war, and as long as military considerations were paramount, the ideological differences were subordinated. After victory the only real basis of our political collaboration, namely objective military necessity, was lost.

Since then, the political leaders in both countries, and also in Great Britain, have inaugurated a race of armaments which must lead by a terrible logic, if it is not stopped decisively, to the most devastating conflict in the history of mankind.

This race of armaments cannot be stopped by political debate and legal argument. It can be stopped only by a thorough military understanding—resting upon the realities of the weapons, tactics, and the strategy of modern war—among the men in all three countries who are the ultimate and responsible advisers on the subject of national security.

Yet it is increasingly evident that military thinking in the three capitals has deteriorated since the armistice, that the political leaders have been acting upon superficial, obsolete, second-rate and self-contradictory military ideas.

For us it is, of course, easiest to see this in the case of the Russians, a little harder to see in the case of the British, and hardest of all to see in our own case.

Poor Defense

Thus we can see quite readily that while the Russian system of satellite states is a good defense against a reconstituted German army, it is a very poor defense against the very danger which the Russians profess to fear—namely, encirclement, blockade and attack by the so-called capitalist states. For little countries are not a buffer against the kind of long-range sea and air power which we possess. We could cross them at will and in no time at all.

Moreover, against sea and air power Russia can never obtain free access to the sea except by agreement. She could take the Dardanelles, the Bosphorus, the Persian Gulf, and strangle them, and still she would not have free access to the sea except by agreement with us. For sea and air power could still stop the movement of ships.

Therefore, Russia alone can never keep the Mediterranean open at the Dardanelles, not even at Suez and Gibraltar. We could still close the Dardanelles effectively without having a ship with 1,000 miles.

But with our collaboration the Dardanelles can now be kept open. The Germans alone could close the straits by coming overland. The British and Americans alone could close them by sea. Therefore the secure passage of Russian ships through the straits can be obtained only by the military pact which they have with us to hold the Germans in check and to remain partners and allies within the United Nations.

So we see that it is a crude fallacy of Russian military thinking to suppose that the Soviet Union can achieve access to the sea against our consent and without our cooperation. But in our own thinking we have been the victims of equally crude military ideas. It is most evident when we discuss the atomic bomb.

We are, for example, very much upset at the disclosure by the Canadian government that secrets have been given to the Soviet government. It is indeed upsetting, and the accused men, if they are proved guilty, have dishonored themselves. But what else does it prove?

It proves, does it not, that even in wartime, even with the best efforts of Gen. Groves and the intelligence services of the three English-speaking allies, it was not possible to keep this military secret. What then are the chances of keeping it in time of peace when, no matter what kind of legislation Congress devises, the control of the scientists and technicians must inevitably be relaxed?

No Security in Monopoly

The Canadian disclosures, far from showing that Gen. Groves is right in his philosophy, show that his philosophy is quite unworkable. It was unworkable even when he had infinitely more power than he can ever hope to have again. Gen. Groves was supposed to guard the secret, and he didn't. That is what the Canadian affair proves.

It proves, therefore, that there is no hope of security for us by attempting to monopolize the secret. There are then only two real alternatives left. The one is to use the atomic bomb, not merely to board it, before the Russians get it. The other is to control it by agreement.

To put the matter brutally and bluntly and truthfully we must either fight a preventive war in the very near future, or we must make up our minds that we shall reach behind the iron curtain for a military agreement with the Russians. For if we do not fight a preventive war and do not get an agreement, we shall in the end fight a war of extermination which will be as indecisive as it is horrible.

Since the path on which the three governments are now stumbling along is one that leads in the end to war, they must consider the possibility of a preventive war. The Germans alone could close the

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, March 21, 1926. Income tax collection of $389,894,381 during the first 20 days of March were reported by the treasury department, representing an increase of 28 per cent over the comparable period the preceding year.

President Roosevelt allocated $43,000,000 to the works progress administration for repairs and replacement in the flood stricken areas.

G. L. Rush was elected senior counselor at a meeting of Marion Council No. 129, United Commercial Travelers.

Marion alumni members of Ohio Alpha chapter of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity attended a banquet and dance given at Ohio Wesleyan university. The group included Mr. and Mrs. John K. Hartman, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Geer, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith and George Stanford.

The marriage of Mrs. Allice Peters and James W. Mitchell took place at the Central Christian church parsonage with Rev. James O. Dodd officiating.

Mary Ann and June Roeker were enrolled as members at a meeting of the Junior Mission band of Emanuel Lutheran church.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, March 21, 1926. The P. W. Boyer grain elevator on Park boulevard was destroyed by fire at a loss estimated at $30,000. The elevator contained 13,000 bushels of grain, 12,000 pounds of ground feed and a large quantity of flour.

William H. Bruce, 72, prominent in Knights of Pythias activities here, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. B. Hale on North Prospect street.

More than 500 persons attended the annual memorial services of Buckeye Aerle of Eagles and heard an address by Dr. A. C. Bush of Cincinnati.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long of the Delaware village, Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Johnson of Fies avenue and Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Cheney of South Grand avenue and a son to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis of Fies avenue.

Ralph Carhart, Ohio State university student, was spending the spring vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Carhart of Lafayette street.

Mrs. Mary Gorenflo, 76, died at the home of her son Clifford near Prospect.

Your Turn Maine!

BOISE — Recent controversy over relative merits of Maine and Idaho potatoes found a new rejoinder this week in recollection of the story of Old Jim, a Snake River Valley farmer.

Asked if he would sell 100 pounds of potatoes to a camp nearby, Old Jim scratched his pate, cogitated a bit, and then eventually refused.

"Nope," he said. "I can't do it. I wouldn't put a spud in two for no one."

U. S. and the Mediterranean

By Raymond Moley

They are important and easy to define.

We are directly interested in the shortest sea route to the Middle East and to certain sections of the Far East. We are, therefore, interested in having the Suez Canal under a control on which we can confidently rely. We are interested in having the sea route from Gibraltar to Suez reliably held. We are also concerned in keeping Greece at least neutral between the Russian and British spheres of influence. With this in mind, perhaps, we are preparing out of proportion to her size and economic importance.

2. We are also interested in a reliable held control of the Dardanelles. That means access by us, as well as by Russia. The actions of Turkey in the recent war are now fully known. Turkey was well paid for friendship, not only by regaining territory lost after the first World War, but, later by lease from the United States. But Turkey did a profitable business with Hitler and also permitted German ships to slip into the Black Sea. There is a basic need to see that the Dardanelles, by mutual agreement, should never again be closed to Russia, to Britain and to the United States. To leave control exclusively to Turkey would mean unending intrigue by the great powers with and within Turkey.

Russian claims for former Italian colonies can be dismissed as trading talk. The Soviet's real need is access to the Mediterranean and, in a free world, that ought to be satisfied.

The United States can well insist on a frank and open settlement of the Mediterranean problem on the basis of common recognition of freedom of the use of Suez and the Dardanelles. The sooner this is cleared up, the sooner the Big Three can go on to other Russian claims.

Big Treasure Hunt Forecast

That hundreds of ships sunk during the World War II will be available through modern salvage methods for junking or reconstruction during the postwar period is the opinion of Lt. Harry E. Rieberg, marine salvage expert, as expressed in his recent book, "Treasure Hunter."

Caterpillar tanks covering the ocean's bottom 2,000 feet below the surface are one of the improvements he forecasts which will aid in salvage and treasure hunting operations. Pontoon vessels capable of raising submerged vessels from depths heretofore thought impossible are also forecast.

Basis for predictions is the performance of a diving bell which withstood pressure at 438 feet to salvage $12,500,000 from British ship, Niagara, during the war. The same bell, the writer points out, is capable of withstanding pressure down to 1,000 feet, while other improvements point to recovery of vast fortunes dating back to the gold of the Spanish Main.

Scenario Writer Meets Horse

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—The story of the Anita $150,000 handicap won by her War Knight, a rank outsider, will be written by Ethel Hill, scenario writer an owner of horse, for MGM and will be called "H. Grand." —News item.

Miss Hill—Well, I'm going to do you a picture.

War Knight—I suppose if you must you. Miss Hill—You don't seem very pleased. War Knight—I know what they do to a race in movies.

Miss Hill—Your knees are shaking. War Knight—And why not?

Miss Hill—What have you to be so afraid of? War Knight—You know what I've got to go through. The old plantation where I was movie actor and become vicious.

Miss Hill—Put things in the proper perspective. You become vicious and then bite the actor.

War Knight—Okay. Anyhow, I'm a horse. The owner gives the order to shoot me or down the river. Then comes the scene where the little girl overhears the order. And a goody bit in the stall where she and I understand each other. And I lick her forehead.

Miss Hill—We can leave that last part out. War Knight—Not a Hollywood race. Miss Hill—All right, I plan to make it a little change it to a little boy. No, that's been too. I'll make it a man.

War Knight—No. I'll settle for the girl. Then comes the part where the girl and I run away, jump through a big store window and throw her into a horse or pumpkin. She's rescued by the barbers who once rode in the English Derby. And love scenes and all those secret trails at night.

Miss Hill—You're an awful scoundrel at this.

War Knight—There's only one part of movie races that I like. It's the one I always strike me as funny. The part where a boy goes to town with his savings, takes a saloon for a milkbar and falls in a two inchies named Ali Baba and a degree. That's the only scene where they laugh, and they leave the horse out!

Miss Hill (firmly)—This time I'm re-creating a true race story, a genuine picture of Santa Anita, sticking exactly to your performance in every detail.

War Knight—What will you do when I come to that part where the right jockey on me, I break okay, slick with the leaders, am never a half mile behind the pack?

Miss Hill—I intend to reproduce the Santa Anita at no time in the race will you be a jockey's son.

War Knight (thoughtfully)—One more question. How about the odds of only fifteen to one I won at? Are you going to stick to that?

Miss Hill—Now you really ARE a horse. IMPOSSIBLE!

One More Spring

By Truman Twill

The grass seed companies and lawn experts all agree that the time to monkey with the grass is in the fall, so millions of us tear at the project the first mild days of early spring. Alas! report that on one warm Sunday recently they could spot every city and town clouds of garden lime, fertilizer dust and baling grass seed.

This evidence of earthly toil may not prove much greenery, but it is marvelous for the what the grass seed companies and lawn experts fall to understand is that the soul has a price.

We have been making a study of this situation for a long time and have checked our own with neighbors similarly engaged in the peevishness of the soil. To a man, they agree that tinkering with the lawn is a little like nothing to do with grass culture.

"They realize that grass culture is also a beyond them—a project for landscape composers, greens keepers and professional gardeners. They admit it is going to be their lot to go to life with a lawn as unsightly and unsatisfactory as a bald man's head.

Yet year after year they exercise the right to strew said lawn with assorted fertilizers, powders, seeds and patent preparations, as if man who knows doom is sealed by persists in applying various lotions and treatments to his scalp because they are good for morale.

The only man of our acquaintance with a law to be proud of is a slave to his own success. He slaves at it from early spring until late fall. He never out of his thoughts.

The rest of us indulge in one good-natured razor a year, in the early spring trim. We devote of grass for one day, no more. The 364 days, we forget the stuff. We can take a lesson.

But for that one day we get the pleasure of the gesture. No one can say we haven't tried. We have raked off the tin cans, the bricks and the other debris and replaced them with the best grass seeders our money can buy.

We have welcomed spring and come to our mile to its comfort. For the next 364 days the lawn belongs to the kids, dogs, cats, chinch bugs, weeds, moles, and our efforts, and passers. They are welcome to our efforts, and will waste no time undoing them, more so to them. There's always one more spring.

Scars and Nylons

America's "peace, it's wonderful," turned an ironic catch phrase throughout the war was a favorite among ladies after nylons in cities as Baltimore recently.

Lines of women turn out daily in the shopping district with battle-like gear. Small stores were barricaded against the move, and during the onslaught, clerks were together for protection. One woman swears the daily campaigns with the comment:

"Dear me I've been through, you'd believe, I got seven pairs, but I can show a scar for every one."

Did You Know?

The steel pipe installed in Washington's Pentagon Building would stretch from Chicago to Indianapolis—about 200 miles.

In an hour and a quarter, the present American steel industry can equal total output in the whole year 1880.

Stimson Bares U. S. War Choice

From the point of view of the opinion if a further war was given.

Warred in August.

Stimson, closed a committee learned that the Japanese expedition must not be allowed to land in the Gulf of Siam, that if the Japanese got into the Isthmus of Kra, the British would fight; and if the British fought, we would have to fight.

"We decided, therefore, that we could not just sit still and do nothing," he continued. "On the other hand, we also decided that we could not attack without a further warning to Japan, and we discussed what form the warning should take. The President suggested a special telegram from himself to the emperor of Japan. After some discussion it was decided that he would send such a letter to the emperor, which would not be made public, and that at the same time he would deliver a special message to congress reporting on the danger and reporting what we would have to do if the danger happened."

Program Not Followed.

As it developed, this program was not followed. Stimson explained that the President went to Warm Springs, Ga., for Thanksgiving and that in the interim between his return Dec. 1, it was learned that the Japanese expedition was landing in Indo-China rather than going on into the Gulf of Siam.

"This appeared to give us a little respite, since it indicated that perhaps they were not going to invade Thailand at once," he said.

Stimson's 36-page statement was accompanied by an additional 30 pages of memoranda in diary form of events during the days immediately preceding the war's outbreak. He sent the material to the committee in reply to a series of written questions submitted to him. Because of ill health, he was not called as a witness during the hearings.

The excerpts from his diary recorded him as writing on Dec. 7:

"When the news first came that Japan had attacked us, my first feeling was of relief that the decision was over and that a crisis had come in a way which would unite all our people. That continued to be my dominant feeling in spite of the news of catastrophe which quickly developed."

Stimson remarked in his statement that "from some of the comments quoted in the public press, one would get the impression that the imminent threat of war in October and November 1941 was a deep secret, known only to the authorities in Washington who kept it mysteriously to themselves."

"Public Knowledge."

It was a matter of public knowledge as anyone could see from reading the newspaper headlines, he said, adding that:

On Oct. 24 Secretary Knox publicly warned of a "clash" with Japan.

On Nov. 11, Armistice Day, the President warned the people that the nation was facing a world war again.

On the same day, Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, declared "our people realize that any moment war may be forced upon us."

Stimson replied spiritedly to the contention by Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, Hawaiian Army commander when the Japanese attacked, that the war department failed to provide him with adequate warning and information.

He said the "war warning" message sent Short on Nov. 27 "presented with the utmost precision the situation with which we were all confronted x x x."

Stimson declared Short should have been on the alert even if no warning message had been sent to him.

"If he did not know that the relations between Japan and the United States were strained and might be broken at any time, he must have been the only man in

NEW ROCKET SOARS OVER 43 MILES UP

By The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif., March 21.—A new monopropellant rocket, developed by California Institute of Technology, has soared 43 1/2 miles into space in quest of weather secrets.

The Army ordnance department disclosed today the rocket, weighing 1,000 pounds, 16 feet long and 12 inches in diameter, had been turned over to the signal corps. Its job will be to speed into the stratosphere, record temperatures, and release the data by parachute.

Butter Shortage Ease Still Out of Sight

CHICAGO, March 21.—Housewives who may have hoped for more butter soon could expect to stay in the jam—literally—of recent weeks' figures of the department of agriculture show.

Last week's creamery butter production was 18,600,000 pounds, an increase of 100,000 pounds, or up less than 1 per cent from the 18,500,000 pounds of the week before, said the department.

Compared with the corresponding week a year ago, last week showed a shrinkage in production of 33 per cent, partly due to a sharp seasonal increase last year, officials said.

Coming of Spring Brings Critical Time To Europe

By EDWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

PARIS, March 21—Europe's war-torn former President Roosevelt is here to investigate the situation as it is by the coming of spring. There is a great deal of difficulty in the world, and the difficulties of the coming of spring are not to be underestimated. The coming of spring is a critical time for Europe. The coming of spring is a critical time for Europe. The coming of spring is a critical time for Europe.

mal times. The discouraging fact is that misfortunes are swarming the farmlands like an army of locusts, making certain that the fall harvest will be far short of the customary yield in most areas. The early vegetables will brighten the situation but this will be a comparatively slight and passing relief.

Fertilizer Is Scarce

One of the worst handicaps is a great shortage of fertilizer. The soil already is impoverished for lack of nitrates which were diverted to war purposes, and now the nitrate plants aren't functioning. There is an even worst trial in the scarcity of seed, especially grain.

There is a great scarcity of farm implements, owing partly to destruction wrought in the war and partly to curtailment of the manufacture of such tools. And then, of course, the conflict has robbed thousands upon thousands of farms of the sturdy youths who were their mainstay.

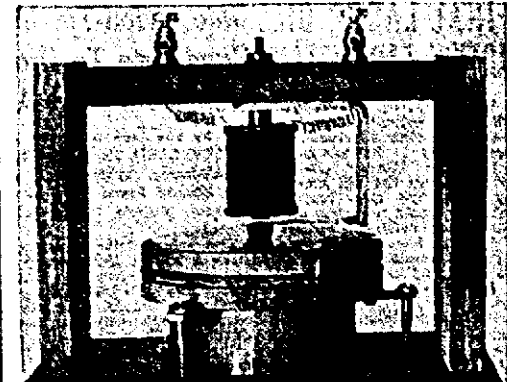

Even if crops were normal, there still would be great problems to meet. One of these is the feeding of the displaced persons who have been moved in huge numbers about the continent.

Even if there were food enough in Europe to meet requirements, still it would be impossible to distribute it readily because of the disorganization of transport and the lack of rolling stock.

The great drought of last year in western Europe has added vastly to the current food shortage. Big producers like Spain and France found their fields parched for lack of rain, and crops tumbled to far below normal. In ordinary times such a crisis could be met by imports from abroad, but not so now. There is the world scarcity to figure on.

Livestock Stripped

Quite apart from the matter of crops, there is another disaster which the countries occupied by the Germans have suffered. The Hitlerites robbed them of livestock of all sorts. France, Holland, Belgium, and other countries were stripped of cows, sheep and pigs, and along with these went the all-important work-horses. It is true that some parts of Germany are now better off for livestock than are the pillaged countries. For this reason part of the farming areas of the Reich are doing fairly well for food despite the shortage of grain and vegetables. That is small solace to the urban districts, however.

THE FIRST TELEPHONE—1876—Today's telephone is a far cry from this crude instrument which transmitted the first telephone message 70 years ago, when Alexander Graham Bell spoke from the attic of a Boston boarding-house. America has seen this invention grow from a laboratory curiosity to a modern, every-day necessity in many millions of homes and places of business.

Benefit Supper Report
Given at Club Meeting

At a luncheon meeting of the Business Women's club at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday, a report made on a chili supper given by the club in the Y rooms Tuesday night showed approximately 250 served, tickets amounting to over $100 sold, with profit estimated at approximately half of that figure, with final settlement not quite complete. Miss LaVern Lash, treasurer, made the report. The supper was held as a benefit project for the Y.

It was announced that flowers which decorated the tables, presented to the club by a Marion business concern, had been sent to City hospital following the supper. Other donations were made by places of business in town. Robert Miller, brother of a member, made a small wire "stamp" composed of the initials, "B. W. C.", which was used to mark pats of butter. Table decorations besides the flowers, yellow jonquils, were green crepe paper streamers and yellow candles. Mrs. Lucille Beaver was chairman of the dining room committee. Mrs. Lucille Conrad, a member of the club, furnished piano music during the evening. Miss Lydia Ebel headed the committee for preparation of the food. Miss Margaret Huffman was discussion leader at the meeting.

template the character of that war before they stumble in any further. The Russians must realize that we can blockade them and that we can destroy from the air their chief centers of industrial production. They can never make themselves invulnerable to the long-range bomber carrying the atomic bomb. Nothing they can do in Iran, Turkey, or Manchuria will offer them any defense.

On the other hand, it is no less important for us to realize that the atomic bomb could not guarantee a victory, and does not even promise a victory. It is as certain as anything can be in military science that the bigger a country is the less vulnerable it is to the blitzkrieg. No atomic bombardment could destroy the Red Army; it could destroy only the industrial means of supplying it.

The Russian defense to atomic attack is, therefore, self-evident. It is to overrun continental Europe with infantry, and defy us to drop atomic bombs on Poland, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Switzerland, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Sweden.

The more we threaten to demolish Russian cities, the more obvious it is that the Russian defense would be to entrench themselves in Europe, cities which we could not demolish without massacring hundreds of thousands of our own friends. And then, where would Britain be? Of all the powers in the world, Britain

Auto License Sales Pass Half-Way Mark

TRUMAN NOT TO REVEAL CANDIDACY IN SPEECH

Says Jackson Day Banquet Not to Bring Tip-off.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 21—President Truman said today he would make no announcement on Saturday night that he will be a candidate for reelection in 1948.

The Chief Executive is scheduled to speak then to a Jackson day dinner sponsored by the Democratic national committee. He told a news conference it would be a political speech. But he replied in the negative and with a chuckle an inquiry whether he would announce at the time his candidacy for reelection.

Political figures in the news conference at another point when Mr. Truman was asked whether he agreed with Secretary of Commerce Wallace that party members who get out of line should be disciplined.

The President laughed and said that he and Wallace never had discussed that. But it is necessary, he added, "to hold the party in power in line to get its program over."

The President remarked that he would have no objection to Republicans joining with Democrats in putting over progressive measures. In fact, he said he would be happy to have them do it.

mark the lowest ebb of depravity of modern times. There are few parallels in infamy and tragedy with the brutalization of troops who in good faith had laid down their arms.

Praises U. S. Troops
Of the men of Bataan, their former leader said:

"Of all fighting men of all time, none deserved more the honors of war in their final hour of final agony. The gallantry of the denial never has been exceeded."

Homma's 18-year-old daughter Hisako tearfully told Japanese newspapermen a "true verdict of God" would exonerate her father.

"Today's verdict is of human making, not of God's," said Hisako, speaking for her mother, confined to bed with influenza.

A friend of Homma, Marutani said that when Homma was on trial at Manila, the general sent him this message:

"I know I cannot escape the death sentence. I have failed to fulfill my task with justice and charity. Now I do not blame anybody. What I think now is I want to go—the earlier the better—to the place where Japanese soldiers fell and where American soldiers sleep. I must apologize to God for all my sins."

indicated heated opposition to both those recommendations.

Wills Wants Change

Where Pepper urged tolerance for Russia's position in the world and an attempt to understand her problems, another senator advocated a sterner course in a speech last night.

Senator Raymond Willis (R-Ind.) told the Sons of the American Revolution that we ought to "stop sending both notes and goods to Russia."

"Russia is able to carry out these aggressive moves because America furnished her with billions in lend-lease materials without getting a clear agreement in advance," Willis said. "Russia is not nearly so strong as she might seem to be, and our tacit support of many of the things she has done so far has been her biggest single weapon."

Bulgarian Cabinet To Submit Resignation

By The Associated Press
SOFIA, March 21—The Bulgarian government, headed by Premier Kimoa Georgiev, announced today that its resignation would be submitted to parliament today—a move interpreted in some quarters as opening the way for broadening the cabinet in accordance with the Moscow agreement of December, 1945.

Other observers, noting that the step followed several days of "backbiting" for portfolios, predicted that the resignation would result only in a reshuffle of ministries among the fatherland front parties now in power.

An agreement reached by the Big Three foreign ministers during their Moscow conference last December called for inclusion of two representatives of the opposition in the Bulgarian cabinet as the price for U. S. and British recognition of Bulgaria.

"Axis Sally" To Be Tried For Treason

By The Associated Press
BERLIN, March 21—Justice department representatives informed a woman accused as Berlin's "Axis Sally" today that she is to be taken to the United States and charged with treason.

The 37-year-old Portland, Maine, native, identified by American military government officials as Mildred Gillars, has been under arrest in Zehlendorf since Friday night. In an interview today she referred to herself persistently as "Axis Sally" and told reporters:

"My conscience is clear, I have nothing to hide."

"Sally," whose feering voice once was beamed nightly from Berlin to homesick GIs in North Africa and later in Europe, is spending her time playing casino with her guards and writing a personal account of her adventures.

FINAL LABOR BILL ACTION FAR DISTANT

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, March 21—Final congressional action—if any—on strike control legislation appears today to be months off.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont.) told reporters the bill approved by the senate labor committee probably would not come up for floor debate until such matters as the British loan, housing legislation and extension of the OPA have been settled.

Adding to the uncertainty as to whether any strike control bill will be enacted is the wide difference between the measure produced by the senate committee and the one already passed by the house.

The senate bill provides:

1. A federal mediation board which would try to avert strikes by mediation and conciliation.
2. A ban on use of violence or threats to prevent farmers from transporting perishable farm commodities or to force them to make any payment to a labor organization.

The house measure, on the other hand, includes prohibitions against violence in strikes, permits suits against unions for violations of contracts, and exempts supervisory employees from the National Labor Relations act.

Ohio Nylon-Tossing Candidate To Drop New Auto from Air

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, March 21—Pocketbook-tossing, nylon-tossing Albert Edward Payne has a couple of new projects in the air—literally.

One very definite project is to make a speech from the courthouse steps in every Ohio county before May 7. He has hired a pilot to get him around. Ohio has 88 counties, each with courthouse, complete with steps.

The other, not so definite, is to drop a new automobile, size and make still undetermined, from an airplane into a haystack, or maybe let it down by parachute. The idea would be to give the automobile to the first person to reach it.

Payne is the Springfield business man who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. His slant on the campaign is that he is not much good at the time-honored political tactic of baby-listing, so he thinks up stunts to attract attention.

His first stunt was to "lose" 150 pocketbooks here, each containing a dollar bill.

His idea for dropping 150 pairs of free nylons from an airplane into a Cleveland park struck a snag when he couldn't get a plane and pilot, a circumstance which he blamed on "northern Ohio politicians." So he tossed the nylons from a park shelterhouse roof.

PROSPEROUS FARMER SEEN AS PEACE BASIS

Farm Bureau Official Speaks to U.S.O.A. Council Here.

Speaking to members and guests of the United States department of agriculture council, at Detroit's Inn last night Herbert Evans of Columbus, personnel director of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, placed the future success of world peace and national prosperity in the hands of American agriculture.

The former Columbia university professor declared, "Intelligent farmers offer more to America today than any other group. My plea is for an understanding and an open mind for solving the problems of the nation."

In asking for international cooperation, Mr. Evans stressed the "smallness" of the world today, and said agricultural prosperity during the next few years would depend largely on feeding a starving Europe. He discussed the potentialities of the atomic bomb in future world relations and called "decent people" the one defense against it.

In solving our national difficulties, Mr. Evans pointed out there must be an understanding between labor and the farmers and between racial and religious groups. "The nervous, upset state in which America has found itself following the war is a dangerous thing," he said.

Mr. Evans address was made to a group of 17 farmers, and other leaders of the Marion community. Frank G. Montgomery, chairman of the council, presided.

Next meeting of the council will be April 11, with John Hull of Louisville, Ky., representative of the Farm Credit Administration, the principal speaker.

The agricultural council includes representatives from the county agent's office, the AAA office, the Marion Rural Electric Cooperative, the Federal Land Bank, the Farm Security Administration and the Production Credit Association.

It's the Same Old Story in New Setting As Spring Arrives

By AUSTIN E. SHOWNMAN

Today it's spring. And when it's spring in Marion county many things may happen, and do.

Some young men's fancies turn to thoughts of love. Marriage licenses issued in probate court average almost two a day, with 28 licenses issued during the first 20 days of March. Two persons recently applied for a license to remarry after being divorced for 10 years.

Some other men's fancies seemingly turn to thoughts of love for somebody else. Thirty divorces have been granted in common pleas court this month. Five petitions for divorce were filed yesterday.

There are those who are paying property taxes. County Auditor Harry V. Mounts reports nearly 150 persons a day are filing tax returns in his office.

For many veterans it is their first spring at home in several years. Many are now working, but at least 200 have asked the United States Employment Service to assist them in locating jobs. Many veterans will be voting for the first time in the May primary and are checking their voting status with the board of elections.

Farmers are plowing and discing for oats and getting their fields ready for spring planting. Already baby chicks and little lambs have made their appearance, and sheep shearing has started. Some farmers are awaiting their turns for purchasing new implements such as tractors, combines and corn pickers.

For a few, it is the time of year to return the neighbor's snow shovel and borrow the lawn mower.

GI's Open Homes To Belgian "Mom" Who Helped Them

By The Associated Press
HOISINGTON, Kas., March 20.—Every day seems like "Mother's day" now to Reta Nulens—she's come to live among the scores of GI's who called her "Mom" and her Belgian cottage home in their drive into Germany.

The attractive middle-aged Miss Nulens used to run a pharmacy in her native village of Hasselt, Belgium. That was before the Nazis came and confiscated her supplies.

Then the Americans came. She opened her home to them. Sometimes as many as 30 were there at one time. As they moved on others came. They talked of home, of Kansas and wheat fields, of the south and cotton, of corner drug stores.

When the war ended she dreaded to see them go. Her "boys" decided she was going, too.

Sgt. Frank Tharp of Hoisington

—he was the first to call her "Mom"—took charge of the campaign. Through an advertisement in his hometown newspaper of Little Rock, Ark., Pvt. Nicholas J. Sebastian Jr., 304 W. A. Delaney, Ada, Okla., oil man, to sponsor "Mom" as an immigrant in exchange for tutoring his daughter in foreign languages.

Her "boys" completed details for the trip; wrote their families along the route from Mobile, Ala., where she docked, to Hoisington where she wanted to visit Tharp's home.

It worked that way. Families of her GI's put her on a train at Mobile for Fort Worth, Tex., where more GI families helped her aboard another train for Kansas.

Now she's visiting Tharp's wife and three-year-old son here. Tharp, who put her aboard her ship, hasn't arrived yet. He's still trying to get home, but Mom's here with Tharp's letter saying:

"Please accept this as an introduction to the finest lady in Belgium. Any help you can give her will be small compared to the assistance she has given American troops. Regardless of who you are, treat this lady as your mother."

Yes, Mother! Reta Nulens is a truly fine lady. She has been a great help to the boys. She has been a great help to the boys. She has been a great help to the boys.

King Zog Learns Cairo Has Housing Problem

By HAL BOYLE

Cairo, March 21—Egyptian oddities: There is no royal road to a good apartment in Cairo. Even kings find the housing shortage a problem.

King Zog of Albania, his queen and her four sisters were forced to entertain King Farouk of Egypt in a hotel suite after the Albanian royal party came from London to Cairo, where they may make their home.

They are living temporarily in hotel quarters until royal scouts can locate an apartment. . . . American babies ride in push buggies. Japanese babies ride pickback in papoose style. So do Chinese babies. But in Egypt babies ride side saddle — astride their mother's shoulder with their arms clasped around her neck. . . . So many orthodox Moslem married women, particularly of the uneducated classes, wear black dresses and veils that white streets some times look as if they were in mourning.

These shy ladies, whose religion forbids them showing their faces to strangers, pin veils to their faces with a bronze or gold metal clasp that fastens on the nose by a metal clothes pin. . . . Household crockery is still scarce—so scarce that in some places you are served water in glasses made by cutting down beer bottles. You have to drink carefully to keep from gashing your initials in your lips.

Cairo is one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the world and quite modern in most respects. If you have money to buy it and time to search it out you can find almost any 20th century product you want. Yet within a day's ride by motor car are villages which live by the same social customs and codes that ruled their ancestors ten centuries ago.

One of the most conservative of these tribes is the Hawarahs of upper Egypt. It is so conservative that boy children are removed from their mother's care at the age of four and too her no more.

Womenfolk live completely secluded within the walls of their own homes. No men servants are allowed to cross the threshold and these secluded wives have no feminine company except members of their own household. They cannot even see their own male cousins or their husbands' brothers. It is an ideal setup for a husband who wants to convince his wife he is the world's most perfect man.

In one of these villages some more daring women have taken to leaving their own homes occasionally to visit neighbor women friends. They are ladies of high rank and their sorties out into the world create quite a stir. They are surrounded by guards and all traffic to and out of the village and in the neighborhood of their visit is suspended. They themselves, of course, are heavily veiled.

No one is quite sure just who is being protected from whom or what but no one is taking any chances.

There is no place quite like Egypt for holidays. It is the true home of the "long weekend." Moslems celebrate Friday as a weekly holy day, Jews take Saturdays and Christians have their traditional Sundays off. Cairo barbers, not content with this wide choice, have their own special holiday. They hang up their shears and close shop on Mondays.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday are supposedly meatless days in Cairo restaurants, but chicken, duck, lamb and tongue aren't classified as meat. And neither is steak, if you really want it. The restaurant serve anything you order and nobody thinks anything about it.

If you start to hail a taxi at least three nightrobed natives will begin running madly up and down the street trying to get a cab. And when one rolls up from the opposite direction they rush to open the cab door. For this "service" unasked and unwanted you are expected to give "bakshish" to each.

The only native of this class I met in Egypt who didn't ask for more money—no matter how much you overpaid them they ask for more as a matter of principle —was a dignified old Arab at the pyramids. He was extremely religious and had made pilgrimages to Mecca and Medina.

When I paid him his fee and asked if he were satisfied he replied: "A good name is much better than money. All the time shine like full moon."

He must be a very lonesome man—in Egypt.

PROTEST BUCYRUS DUMP

BUCYRUS, March 21—Bucyrus city council was confronted with a complaint from citizens living near the West Mary street dump concerning conditions which they said "made living obnoxious" in the area. Rats and burning rubbish were the chief complaints and citizens also reported farmers and other persons who were unauthorized were dumping trash.
